

DEANA MURPHY

LIVING DESIGNS ASSOCIATES, LLC

Deana Murphy lives a purpose-driven life. With undergraduate and graduate work in economics and business, she left her corporate career and obtained a degree in interior design at Northampton College. She graduated with honors, and encountered her first professional design project before her commencement celebration. She successfully converted sections of a carriage house into the executive offices of a church and charter school.

Through Home and Garden's Television current lifestyle show, Mission-Organization, Deana meets design challenges by seeing opportunities for erudition. In one recent show, she designed a basement bedroom for two where she demonstrated how to make sense out of confusion and bring order to chaos.

Deana produces tailor-designed solutions according to each client's lifestyle. She gives each client an assignment so there is a reciprocal approach to the design process. Deana believes everyone's design style emanates from within, and she balances applicable colors and textures to bring out the best in each client's style.

Deana's expertise ranges from traditional to modern using her unique style of mixing the old with the new in perfect scale, proportion and balance. Her goal is that when the design process is complete, every client dwells in a peaceable habitat, safe dwelling and quiet resting place.

ABOVE

LEFT
With its warm, unified mix, this den inspires conversations amid an asymmetrical balance. Black and white fuses a sophisticated simplicity by a cozy focal point.
